THREAPLANDS GARDEN CENTRE

Threaplands Garden Centre, a family-run landscaping business, started by selling homegrown plants from their quaint nursery. Their aspirations were always grand, and in 2018, their dreams blossomed into reality with the launch of their custom-built garden centre in Moray, North Scotland.

With the business continuing to grow at pace, we were contacted by Threaplands Garden Centre to help them expand their space. They needed a high-quality solution, durable enough to withstand the unpredictable North Scotland weather and that could provide them with a versatile space they could use all year round.

Our Hampshire Structures Series 120 was perfect for the job - 5m x 25m on a 3m eave. They selected PVC covers in Anthracite – a dark shade of grey, to match their branding and the aesthetic of their existing building. Their custom design was finished with beautiful clear PVC skylights.

The remarkable self-build structure we provided has proven to be a resounding success. It has seamlessly served various purposes, from expanding the restaurant's seating capacity to hosting festive Christmas events and bustling craft markets.
